Summary

Combining technical expertise with legal acumen, Jevon helps businesses navigate the complex intersection of innovation, intellectual property, and technology law. Armed with both a technical foundation in mechanical engineering and legal expertise as a registered Singapore Patent Attorney and Advocate & Solicitor of the Supreme Court of Singapore, Jevon advises a diverse portfolio of clients from innovative startups to multinational corporations, on both contentious and non-contentious IP, technology, and data privacy matters.

Jevon's dispute resolution practice spans both litigation before the Singapore courts as well as alternative dispute resolution proceedings, including mediation and arbitration. Jevon has acted for clients in IP and technology law disputes across various industries, including disputes relating to blockchain and crypto-assets, and software and technology project implementation.

On the non-contentious side, Jevon provides strategic advice on IP portfolio development and management, technology transactions and licensing, data privacy compliance, and innovation strategy for emerging technologies.
